administration of the Government when re-fusing to appropriate the sum they deemed absolutely necessary, that it would be made right next session. I make the prediction now that further appropriations aggregating millions of dollars will be made at the next session to defray the expenses of the Govern-ment for the present fisca. year.

here I have never known an instance where the appropriations were not largely below the estimates. The fact is the estimates are ne estimates. The fact is the estimates are alumble as forming a basis of action by Con-ress. Knowing what the full cost is, Con-ress can then intelligently exercise its dis-retion as to how much of the cost may be ostponed. This is the light in which intel-igent men view this subject of estimates. REDUCTIONS.

Gentlemen on the other side have had much to say of the reductions proposed by the House appropriation bills. They claim to have made reductions of $61,000,00 from the estimates; and from the appropriations of last year of $39,000,00. Now a very large proportion of these sums are not reductions at all, but are simply postponement of expenditure that must be made hereafter. In an analysit of these bills I shall give the amount postponed, so that it can be seen exactly how much credit is due the action of this House on the score of reduction and how much for postponement.

No great financial embarrassment of the Government was or is impending to in any degree warrant the postponement and with-holding of any needful or necessary appro-
